BIG NEW BUILDING AT BENEDICTINE HOSPITAL READY FOR USE MARCH 1

It Will More Than Double Present Capacity of Institution and is Last Word in Modernity—To Remodel Older Buildings Soon.

The new building of the Benedictine hospital will be completed and ready for occupancy by the first of March, and in anticipation of the larger demand for nurses there, as well as in the profession generally, it is expected that the new class of nurses which will be organized early in February will be much bigger than usual.

From a capacity of fifty beds which the present Benedictine hospital contains, the institution will contain 110 beds for patients upon completion of the building which for some time has been in course of construction. Not only will the hospital's capacity be more than doubled, but in addition there will be new operating rooms and numerous other new features which will make the Benedictine hospital one of the most completely equipped hospitals in the state of New York.

As soon as the new building is completed and occupied, numerous changes will be made in the old building which will be remodelled in many respects to meet the growing requirements of the institution. With the home which adjoins the new building, the Benedictine hospital group of buildings form one of the most important and slightly hospital groups anywhere in the state.

New Building Is Big.
The dimensions of the new hospital building are much larger than the average visitor imagines. The new building, facing the Catskill mountains, has a frontage of 63 feet and is 84 feet deep. It is built of concrete, brick and steel, three stories in height, with basement and cellar, and is absolutely fireproof, the only woodwork being the floors of the bed rooms and the solid doors to the various rooms.

Thirty-six additional private rooms for patients are provided in the new building. The changes which will be made in the old building will provide an additional number of private rooms, for which there is a constantly increasing demand.

Three Operating Rooms.
Three large operating rooms are provided in the new building and they are located on the top floor of the building, facing the north, where unobstructed daylight is assured through the large windows which extend across each of the operating rooms and also streams in through the skylights. The Benedictine hospital at the present time contains only one operating room, situated in the old building. The old operating room, with its adjoining sterilizing room, X-ray examination room and record room, will be converted into a large, light, airy ward.

The three new operating rooms will be used for major operations, and their number and size will assure ample opportunity for performing operations without the slightest delay. Opening from the same corridor which leads to the operating rooms there are smaller rooms which will be used by the various specialists who are members of the hospital staff, such as rooms for the examination of eye cases, throat cases, etc. Rooms for minor operations are also located on the basement floor of the new building where the X-ray examination room, laboratory, etc., also are located.

The Silent Call System.
On each floor there is a nurses' room, and the installation of the silent call system from each patient's room on the floor enables the nurse to be notified easily, promptly and silently of the need of the patient. The silent call system is operated electrically. A slight pull on a cord at the hand of the patient lights an indicator in the nurses' room, giving the room number, and also at the same time illuminates a globe over the patient so that the attention of any nurse passing along the corridor is attracted as well as the attention of the nurse at the indicator in the nurses' room.

Many Improvements Installed.
On every floor of the new building are two large toilet rooms, completely equipped, besides linen closets and medicine closets. The principal medicine closet is on the basement floor, near the laboratory. A system of chutes throughout the building enables nurses to dispose of soiled linen promptly and easily, the linen from each floor simply being dropped in the chute which conveys it to receptacles at the bottom of the chutes in the basement, from which it is taken to the laundry. The laundry will remain as at present, but will be enlarged to meet the additional requirements and new laundry machinery will be installed.

Kitchen Completely Equipped.
The kitchen for the entire hospital is located in the rear of the basement of the new building, and besides being completely equipped with all conveniences for cooking, it will have a dishwashing machine installed. Connecting with the pantry adjoins the kitchen are dumb-waiter floors, so that patients' trays, when prepared, are delivered to the nurses on duty without the slightest delay. The nurses' dining room is situated conveniently to the kitchen and pantry, as well as the Sisters' refectory. There is a diet kitchen on each floor of the building.

Fire Tower Adds Safety.
Besides being of fireproof construction steel fire proof doors separate the new building from the older section, and as an additional safeguard a fire tower extending from the ground to the roof has been constructed between the older and new buildings, connecting with each. The fire tower is of the kind of construction now required in big factory buildings. In the center of the tower is a broad steel and slate stairway of easy grade, with frequent landings. Opening from the main landings are steel doors leading to six-foot corridors which in turn open through steel doors into the main corridors of the older and new buildings. If by any possibility all other means of exit should be shut off, the fire tower would afford an absolutely safe and easy means of egress from each floor and from the building itself. Its location between the older and new buildings adds to its value.

Wood Stairways To Go.
All stairways in the new building are of steel construction, with broad slate treads, which makes walking a pleasure. The present wood stairways in the older building will be removed and the space now occupied by them and their connecting hallways will provide additional rooming facilities.

Otis Elevator Installed.
A feature of the hospital which will be thoroughly appreciated by all patients, doctors, members of the nursing staff and visitors, is an Otis automatic elevator, now being installed, situated about midway in the new building and extending from basement to top floor, opening on the main corridor.

Everything Insures Cleanliness.
The construction of the new building is also of the most modern kind in the way of insuring sanitary safety. In all the operating rooms, bath rooms, toilet rooms, sterilizing rooms, doctors' dressing rooms, etc., white tile predominates in the construction, so that a hose can and will be turned on to clean them. The floors of all these rooms are constructed so as to drain into sewer connections. The floors of all these rooms are of tile, and tile is being used in all corridors. The only rooms having wood floors are the rooms of patients, the patients' wards and the living quarters of members of the staff who will reside in the hospital buildings.

Care for the Babies.
A feature of the new hospital building which will be a suite to be used for confinement cases and for babies. These rooms, occupying the northwest corner of the top floor, are ideally situated with respect to the rest of the building and from their windows the entire sweep of the Catskill Mountain range and the intervening valleys can be seen. The baby's crib room in this suite is now regarded as an essential feature of maternity departments of modern hospitals. Corridors and doors enable this part of the hospital to enjoy absolute privacy. The baby's bath room is equipped with the latest designed self-tub, sprays, etc., which makes the baby's bath a most pleasurable performance not only for the baby but for the nurse who is administering it. Connected with this suite is a separate sterilizing room. Each floor as a matter of modern hospital work, is equipped with a sterilizing room or two, wherein every toilet accessory used in the care of patients is sterilized before being used. The conveniences in these rooms are the result of the experience in the most modern hospitals throughout the country and lighten the work of the nurses to a remarkable degree.

Comfort the Year Round.
The location of the Benedictine Hospital insures its benefiting by the slightest breeze in the hot days of summer, so that during the hot months it is one of the coolest spots in town. This fact may be more fully realized when it is remembered that the top floor of the hospital is on a level with the top of the tower of the city hall. In winter, the Benedictine hospital since its establishment has been noted for its comfort also in winter, and continuation of these ideal conditions is assured by the installation in the new building of a new hot water heating system which will connect up with the present heating system in the older building and in the nurses' home adjoining. The entire hospital building and nurses' home are lighted electrically. Besides the conveniences and comforts provided for nurses in training both in the nurses' home and the hospital building, a room in the former building has been provided for graduates nurses who are in attendance upon patients. This room was furnished from the proceeds of the nurses' Halloween dance last fall.

Remodelling Plans.
The work of remodelling the older building will proceed rapidly as soon as the new building is completed. The rooms on the top floor will be made larger and the roof will be raised. These rooms formerly were occupied by the nurses in training, until the nurses' home was completed several years ago. The con-

Prudential to Have New Office

The Prudential Insurance Company of America, through Peter Daeubler, superintendent of the Kingston district, has closed negotiations for the lease of the second floor of the Frank Forman building at the corner of Wall and John streets, now occupied by Spencer's Business School, and will take possession early in the spring. The lease is for a period of four years.

The ground floor of the building is occupied by the United Cigar Stores Company and the United Drug Company, the second and third floors having been occupied by Spencer's Business School for several years. Spencer's School will remove to the second and third floors of The Freeman building now nearing completion on Fair street, near Main street.

The Prudential Insurance Company for several years has occupied the second floor of the S. S. Kresge & Company building on Wall street. The Forman building will furnish the insurance company with a suite of offices which are light and airy. The second floor will be remodelled to meet the needs of the company. The negotiations were conducted by Real Estate Broker James E. Sneed.

version of these rooms into larger lighter, airy patients' rooms, or wards, will probably follow after the completion of other improvements and changes.

Sun Baths on Roof.

The roof of the new building, which is surrounded by a parapet wall, will be used during fine weather for patients' sun baths, and there, attended by their nurses, patients at their case, will obtain from the highest point in Kingston an unobstructed view of the Catskills, the Shawangunks, the valleys of the Hudson, the Esopus and the Rondout, as well as the entire city of Kingston. Few finer views are to be obtained anywhere in New York state.

The entire work on the new hospital building is being done by the Edward S. Murphy Building Company of New York city, which was awarded the general contract. The company has had other experience in building hospitals.

The New Nurses.
Interest in the approaching completion of the new hospital building is divided with interest in regard to the new nurses to whom will fall the duty of performing the work of nurses in training, as a new class will be formed early in February. The Benedictine Hospital being under registry of the board of regents of the state of New York, its graduate nurses automatically become registered nurses upon their graduation.

The Nurses' Instructors.
Sister Estelle is superintendent of nurses. Miss Andrews is instructor of nurses and Mrs. Horner is assistant instructor. Sister Bernice is night superintendent and Sister Anastasia is superintendent of the hospital. The nurses' class work is conducted by Miss Andrews, with the assistance of the members of the medical, surgical and nursing staff. Instruction for a nurse in training covers a wide field.

Requirements for Admission.
A candidate for admission wishing to take the course of instruction should apply to the superintendent of nurses by letter or in person.

Age.
Candidates should be preferably between 18 and 30 years of age. Exception to this limit is occasionally made when there is a difference of only a few months or when the applicant is particularly fitted for the work.

Education.
Under the laws of the New York state board of regents, no candidate is eligible for admission in a nurses' training school who has not completed at least one year of high school work or its equivalent.

Length of Course.
The course of training covers two years and six months from the date of entrance and six months in Bellevue Hospital, New York city, pediatrics and medical nursing. After the expiration of the four months' preliminary term, a monthly allowance of ten dollars is made to each pupil until graduation.

Vacation.
A vacation of four weeks is allowed each year of training. These vacations are planned as nearly as possible to come between the first of June and the last of September.

Illness.
In illness, all pupils are attended gratuitously by a physician appointed.

Hours of Duty.
The pupil averages nine hours a day in the wards. One-half day per week is given, four hours on Sunday and two hours daily, for rest and recreation.

Nurses' Residence.
The pupils reside in a separate building on Mary's avenue. This building, which is equipped with all modern conveniences and comforts, has also a large reception room with piano, phonograph, library and class room. The single and double bedrooms are comfortable, well lighted, heated and ventilated.

More and more, each year, young women are asking themselves the question: "Why not become a nurse?"

Fire Damages Equipment of Water Works

Compression House And Engine House Destroyed At Prattsville—Will Delay Turning Schoharie Water Into Shandaken Tunnel.

Fire at Prattsville this morning which destroyed the compressor house, the engine house and the head frame on which the cages work disrupted the plans of engineers of the New York city board of water supply to turn the waters of the Glilboa reservoir into the Shandaken tunnel, through which they would flow into the Esopus creek at Allaben and thence join the waters of Esopus watershed in the Ashokan reservoir.

At noon the fire was still burning, and nobody could estimate the delay in making use of the Shandaken tunnel which would result. While the fire itself is a serious matter, in the destruction of machinery, there is no way of determining the extent of the damage until a complete examination is made.

Plans have been under way for some time to divert the waters of Schoharie watershed into the Ashokan reservoir through the Shandaken tunnel at the earliest possible date. Heavy rains recently caused some slight setbacks in the work at the Glilboa reservoir, but did not seriously interfere with the plan of using the Shandaken tunnel.

The fire at Prattsville, however, is bound to cause some delay in putting the Shandaken tunnel to use. The fire spread rapidly after its discovery, and the frame buildings, which were well dried out, made a hot blaze.

Anderson Is to Take Stand

In Own Defense—League Treasurer's Testimony Blocked—Auditor Says Charges "Meant Nothing"—To Jury Friday.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Jan. 24.—William H. Anderson, nationally known dry leader, on trial accused of forgery before a jury in criminal court, opened his defense today.

Anderson will take the stand in his defense, Whitman announced after the trial got under way this morning. "Personally I can't see where the state has made out a case and do not see the need of a defense of any kind," Whitman said today.

Whitman said any defense he might present would be brief, and expressed the opinion that the case would be in the jury's hands not later than tomorrow afternoon. Admission that Anderson had collected half of Phillips' commissions over $10,000 a year was made by Colby P. Williams, one of the dry leader's counsel, in outlining the defense case to the jury.

Bertram H. Fancher, treasurer of the league, was called as the first defense witness. He said he was treasurer of the international Committee of the Y. M. C. A., as well as of the Anti-Saloon League.

Objections by Assistant District Attorney Pecora checked his testimony. Fancher identified the league books and the entries on Phillips' salary and expense account.

Pecora on cross-examination brought out that Fancher gave little of his time to the league's affairs. William F. McLaughlin, an auditor who had examined the league's books, was the next witness. He testified to the effect of the entries transferring $4,400 from Phillips' salary account to his expense account and said the changes were "absolutely without effect."

Under cross-examination McLaughlin maintained that the entries "meant nothing," that they balanced each other.

"Have you ever audited forged accounts?" Pecora asked. McLaughlin said he had. "Forged accounts are always made to balance as part of the scheme, are they not?" Pecora continued.

"Yes," the witness said. The transfer of $4,400 to Phillips' expense account meant the league owed him that sum for expense, McLaughlin said. "If Phillips claimed the league owed him $4,400 for salary would the book show that liability?" Pecora asked.

"No. The books do not show such a liability," McLaughlin answered.

Gas Overcame Mrs. Summers

About 6 o'clock Wednesday evening Mrs. Fannie Summers of No. 13 West Strand was found unconscious in her room from illuminating gas. She had lighted the burner on the gas stove and accidentally turned on another and was overcome by the escaping gas. Dr. John F. Larkin, who was summoned, called for the pulmotor at police headquarters and the ambulance. Mrs. Summers was revived and then removed to the Benedictine Hospital in the ambulance. She is about 75 years old. It was stated today that she was out of danger and would recover.

York Fined $325 On Plea of Guilty

To Violation Of Highway Law In Running Away After Collision—Larceny Charge Still Pending—Boyd's Bail Forfeited—Jurors Discharged.

Lewis York, indicted by the grand jury on charges of grand larceny and violating Section 290 of the Highway Law in leaving the scene of an accident, where damage to property occurred without leaving his name, and also for a violation of the Highway Law in leaving the scene where injuries to persons occurred without giving his name, in county court this morning entered a plea of guilty to the two latter charges and a fine of $325 to be paid to the county of Ulster was imposed by County Judge Fowler. A sentence of four months in the county jail was also imposed but the jail sentence was suspended during good behavior.

York, an employee of Armour & Company, took a Ford car without permission from the company garage and went for a joy ride. On the Saugerties road he collided with a couple of cars driven by local people, and after the accident did not give his correct name and address before he left the scene. The indictment for grand larceny was the result of the taking of the car without permission. In court he appeared with his attorney, Grant M. Brininger of Saugerties, and entered a plea of not guilty. This morning he changed his plea to that of guilty to the two violations of the Highway Law. The grand larceny indictment still is pending.

Mr. Brininger stated that York wished to plead guilty to the two charges and asked the court to show mercy as the defendant was a young man and had borne a good reputation. In pronouncing sentence Judge Fowler stated that the crimes committed by York were of a serious nature and that the act of leaving the scene where an accident had taken place was especially serious where property and persons had suffered as it left no means of tracing the person in making an investigation.

Two indictments against William Boyd, one for assault in the second degree and a second for carrying a weapon concealed upon his person without a license, were returned by a recent grand jury. Boyd pleaded not guilty and gave cash bail for his appearance in court. Chris. Flanagan appeared for Boyd. Since that time Boyd has left this part of the country and Mr. Flanagan stated that he understood Boyd had gone to Philadelphia two months ago. He had endeavored to get in touch with his client but had failed in the attempt to locate him. He had also written to one of the persons who supplied the bail and this morning he had received the letter which had been returned unclaimed. In view of the situation he did not know how to locate his client and did not oppose the motion of District Attorney to have the bail forfeited. An order was entered forfeiting the bail in the sum of $400.

As no other cases were ready for trial at this time of court Judge Fowler discharged the jurors for the time being. Court went into recess until 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon when it will convene without a jury. By the jury at this time of the county court ten cases have been disposed of during the term.

May Recover Stolen Cars

Arrest In Catskill Of Brooklyn Man May Lead To Return Of Automobiles Stolen In This Section.

Through the arrest Tuesday night at Athens, Greene county, of Nicholas Dagnell of Brooklyn, a number of stolen automobiles which have been sold throughout this section may be recovered by their owners. Two stolen cars are said by officers to have been placed in Kingston garages.

Dagnell is said to have confessed to stealing five cars. He is a World War veteran who has been receiving vocational training under the Veterans' Board at City College in New York city. He suffered from shell shock during the war. He is married and has a son about six years old, who has been his frequent companion on trips between Catskill and New York.

Dagnell was in a Catskill garage, where he had hired a taxicab to take him to Athens, when an officer noticed his small son in the taxi and inasmuch as the boy was crying, he suspected a kidnapping plot. Other officers followed the course taken by the taxi and arrested Dagnell when they learned he was at the home of his father at Athens. Before his arrest, Dagnell telephoned to his brother-in-law at Brooklyn that he was in trouble over stolen cars. The arrest was made by local officers and state troopers.

Thousands Pass Bier of Lenin

Soldiers and Police Hard Pressed to Keep Crowds Back—Burial Saturday With Simple Ceremonies.

Moscow, Jan. 24.—Thousands of persons passed today before the red dais holding the body of Vladimir Lenin and gazed for the last time upon his countenance.

The world's greatest revolutionary leader—the "man who shook the world"—rested in state in Trade Union Palace, which has become the magnet of all Russia.

The snow covered streets were filled all day with turbaned humanity. For the most part those seeking entrance were workers and peasants.

So great was the crowd outside Trade Union Palace that the infantry and cavalry on guard were harassed. The military guard of honor was changed every ten minutes.

There was a constant stream of Soviet leaders passing before the bier.

Despite the agony which he suffered just before his death Lenin's countenance was tranquil. The face was actually lifelike.

Above the dais upon which the body reposed was a huge candelabra which shed a soft light upon the coffin. It was surrounded by palms.

A number of children, with whom Lenin romped before his illness compelled him to take to his bed, made a pilgrimage from Gorky, the little village where the great leader spent the last year of his life.

With wondering eyes they trudged past the dais, looking for the last time upon the man whom they had come to regard as their playmate.

Although the government which Lenin headed made a light against religion, some of the Russians who passed before the bier today murmured prayers.

The body will rest in state throughout tomorrow. It will be buried in Red Square on Saturday with simple ceremonies.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, Jan. 24.—Agreement has been reached between Governor Smith and the Republican leaders of the Assembly on water power and automobile legislation.

The announcement was made today that this is the result of the first of the harmony conferences which the governor and the legislative leaders decided should be held to prevent another deadlock this year. The first conference was held last night at the executive mansion.

In his annual message Governor Smith recommended a new water-power policy. It creates a power authority with the power to issue bonds and purchase and develop all water power resources of the state.

The Republicans agreed to a measure of this sort, declaring that their objection to previous water-power recommendations by Governor Smith was that it involved the extending of the state's credit for the purchase of waterpower resources. Under the governor's latest plan the proposed power authority would issue the bonds against future water-power development.

It was agreed to appoint a power authority committee to make a thorough survey of the waterpower situation in the state, and report to the Legislature of 1925. In the meantime the present waterpower law, enacted under former Governor Miller, will remain in force. This law provides for leasing of waterpower resources to private enterprises under complete regulations by the state.

It requires, however, that the waterpower rights all be returned to the state after fifty years.

Governor Smith, after considerable discussion at last night's conference, agreed to the main provisions of the Assembly automobile committee bill which was introduced last week. This measure requires state-wide licensing of all automobile operators. At present automobile drivers are licensed only in New York city. It provides for the appointment of a motor vehicle commissioner by the state tax commission, who is to have full responsibility for motor vehicle and traffic law enforcement.

One of the most important provisions of the motor bill is that the commissioner can revoke as well as grant operators licenses. It is held that these provisions will check the tremendous increase in automobile accidents and fatalities.

The committee bill also requires a certificate of title for every automobile. This title will be given with the original purchase of the car and the owner must always hold it as long as the car is in existence. If the car is sold, it is transferred to the new owner. This provision is proposed to check automobile thefts.

This agreement means that both these measures will be rushed through the legislature.

Other conferences on transit, public utilities, bus lines taxation and other controversial matters will be held later during the session.

The Republicans were represented at the conference by Speaker Machold, Assemblyman McGinnies, chairman of the ways and means committee, and Assemblyman Staples.

Governor Smith was seconded in the conference by Assemblyman Bloch, minority leader of the Assembly.

a telephone. Fined $10. Probably worth $20 to him.

They were seated on a cozy settee in her parlor. The fire in the grate was getting low. The room was nearly dark. All at once the girl timidly said, "Jack, dear, I can't understand why you lavish your affections on me above all the other girls in the world. Why is it?"

"Hanged if I know," he replied,
"and all the other fellows down at the house say that they can't make it out either."

Mary was a little flapper
She didn't do so well.
But since Mary has bobbed her hair,
Now she looks like
The Dickens!

down hill.

this statement, ask your dealer to play some of these new records

KINGSTON, N. Y., JAN. 24, 1924.

The 1921 model rural school bills, based on the findings of the $75,000 Committee of 21, were introduced in the senate and assembly on January 16. They do not seem to differ materially, if at all, from the 1923 models, which were promptly killed in the assembly last year. They provide for camouflaged compulsory consolidation and mechanizing of the rural schools by various commissions, some under salary and others working for glory, but in each instance authorized to employ secretaries, clerks, etc., without limit at salaries also without limit. The bills contain the same jokers as last year.

"SCOFFLAW."

Bootlegger has been generally accepted as a suitable name for the man who makes a business of procuring and selling illegal liquor for profit, but we have lacked a name for the purchaser and drinker of the forbidden merchandise. So a prize of $200 was offered for the manufacture of a fitting word, and out of some 2,500 suggestions which came from forty-eight States, the word "scofflaw" was pronounced the winner. The judges are said to have chosen this word because of its sibilant sound. "'S' words have a sting," they are quoted as saying, and presumably they thought it good policy to choose a word with somewhat of a hissing sound. This recalls the fact that the participle "hissing" is sometimes employed in the Old Testament as a noun, a particularly scandalous and unwelcome event or act being described as "as astonishment and a hissing."

Of course no derivation from ancient roots is mentioned and none is involved, "scofflaw" being obviously a mere combination of the two English words "scoff" and "law," and meaning simply a scoffer of the law. In meaning, therefore, "scofflaw" is quite sufficiently appropriate, for the purchasers of illicit liquor are more or less contemptuous of one law, whether they regard it as unjust or tyrannically arbitrary or not, or whether their conscious thought falls to lift above the mere insistent and absorbing call of physical thirst. Though ugly to the sight and unpleasant to the ear—which may be partly what was sought—"scofflaw" is not a bad word for the purpose, but whether it will be generally adopted and employed as a companion word with bootlegger remains to be seen. As a rule the word of spontaneous generation has a better chance of popularity than the word of deliberate manufacture.

Dr. Howard Shapley of Harvard believes there may be another universe, vaster than that which we know something about, and distant from the earth by six quintillion light-miles. Compared with the time required for light to travel from a distant star in our own universe, it would take eons for us to receive a twinkling from the farther end of that other vaster universe. And if a second universe, why not many in succession at inconceivable distances? The imagination is more than staggered by this new astronomical proposition.

Germany has reason to hope that the project of raising the German navy at Scapa Flow to be used as junk will not be carried through. After the unparalleled spectacle of the voyage of a great navy to capitulate without firing a gun, after the dishonorable act of the German officers who opened the seacocks of all the vessels when the fleet had been delivered and belonged to the Allies, it is better for Germany that the reminders of that inglorious and disreputable incident be left in their watery grave.

Representative Kvale of Minnesota, who is listed as an "arch dry," displayed common sense that is none too common when he told congress the other day: "You cannot allow the rich man to have all the liquor he wants and at the same time compel the man in overalls to obey the Eighteenth amendment—it cannot be done."

It is stated that his French auditors "had great command over their features" while "Hell-and-Maria" Dawes was talking. That ought to have been easy enough, for few of them knew what he was talking about owing to their too distant acquaintance with English.

Dr. Emile Coue is back in this country, but he is said to attract no attention this time. When he returns to France doubtless he will report that day by day in every way those Americans reveal their fickleness and craving for a brand-new sensation.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

THE SENSITIVE HEART.

Your heart has been beating rapidly and violently.

You have thought you had some form of heart disease and have gone hurriedly to your physician for an examination.

After the examination, he assures you that your heart is absolutely sound, and suggests that you forget about it.

You are satisfied for a short time, and then soon again your heart seems to be beating very rapidly. You count your pulse and find your heart is running a hundred beats to the minute instead of seventy or eighty.

You become quite excited, and when you try it again you find it beating about one hundred and twenty.

There must be something wrong. Well, a heart beating that fast is not normal, but it doesn't necessarily mean that there is anything wrong with the heart itself.

You may have what is called a sensitive heart. Sensitive to various things such as mental excitement, the use of tea, coffee, or light alcoholic drinks. I do not place here those hearts affected by the pressure of gas from the stomach.

It may be just the excitement of a caller on the telephone.

Just an ordinary slight exertion performed suddenly, such as getting up from a reclining position, and going to the door or telephone.

Now the first thing to remember is that the cases of imaginary heart disease greatly outnumber the cases of actual heart disease.

It is not unusual for nervous or hysterical people to have these rapid hearts. Also in very thin people whose blood is not rich enough, there is often a tendency toward this sensitiveness of the heart.

The condition is disagreeable but is not dangerous.

Now what to do about it?

If the rapidly is due entirely to the feeling that there is something actually wrong with the heart, then the only sensible thing to do is to see your family doctor, and get the matter cleared up.

Do these sensitive hearts need drugs?

No!

The usual treatment during one of these spells when the heart is beating rapidly, is to give it absolutely rest. This is beneficial very often, but as a matter of fact most of these rapid hearts are slowed down—not by rest—but by actual work, exercise.

Regular outdoor walking or slow running will usually bring these hearts down to a normal number of beats per minute.

First to Scale High Peak.

Mount Washington, in Oregon, was scaled in August last for the first time on record. Six boys from Bend, Ore., none more than 21 years old, after hours of arduous work reached the top-most pinnacle. At one time a member of the party lost his foothold and clung desperately to the face of a perpendicular cliff, with an 800-foot abyss yawning beneath him. A tube containing their names, the story of the climb, and small personal efforts, was left at the top to substantiate their claim. They slid down the dangerous part of the pinnacle by means of a rope which could not be disengaged and still remains on the peak.

To Cut Glass Tubes.

It is said that the following is a simple and effective way to cut glass tubes: First, with a sharp triangular file draw a fine line across the tube. Then, holding the two ends of the tube firmly in the hands, bend it, pulling the two ends or halves apart at the same time. It will usually crack at the scratch, with a smooth edge. If the tubing is thick, it may be necessary after making the scratch to start the crack by means of a red-hot bit of glass—for instance, the end of a stirring rod that has been heated over the flame of a lamp.

Contradicted the Queen.

That veteran journalist and prince of raconteurs, Sir Henry Lucy, delights in telling the story of a certain old admiral who had an extraordinary habit of contradicting anyone with whom he conversed. In fact, he once flatly contradicted the queen. He attended a royal reception and was presented to her majesty, who had heard something of his propensity. "I hear, admiral, you contradict every one who speaks to you," said the queen. "Your majesty is misinformed," replied the admiral, gruffly. "I do nothing of the sort."

Explorers and scientists believe that Easter Island was once a part of a now submerged continent.

The NEW ESSEX A SIX

Built by Hudson Under Hudson Patents

The smoothness and long life for which Hudson is famous is now shared by Essex. It is an important advantage to bear in mind.

So also is the fact that the Essex "Six" possesses other notable Hudson qualities. It has the same type clutch, the same axles, the same provisions for long life and easy care of all working parts. Essex reliability is retained. Essex economy of fuel, oil and tires is greatly enhanced.

We ask this test—take a ride.

You will enjoy it—that's certain. See how handling is simplified. Starts at the touch of your toe. Steers easily as a bicycle. And how easy gear shift. Easy to park too. Its low center of gravity makes safe and comfortable driving on all roads at all speeds.

Simple to keep in first class condition. Requires little attention. Lubrication for the most part is done with an oil can.

You, too, will say: "the New Essex provides ideal transportation."

Carroll Lectures at Moran School

On Importance of Cooperation in Business—Is From Telephone Company Which So Highly Values Smile.

H. J. Carroll, manager of the lecture bureau of the New York Telephone Company, talked for an hour on Wednesday morning to the students of the Moran Business School, Burgeon Building, Fifth and Main streets.

Mr. Carroll launched immediately and in most vigorous style upon the duty of rendering service to our fellowmen. Several splendid illustrations, notably that of last winter's coal strike, were used to show that we are all interdependent and that the failure of one person or group of persons to do their part of the work of the world reacts sooner or later to the detriment of all.

In his remarks on the necessity of cooperation in business, Mr. Carroll made clear his point with the caution that no young man or young woman should enter upon a position with the thought of working for an employer, but rather with the firm determination to work with him and to promote the employer's best interests always.

Many stenographers, he said, pout when asked to sharpen a pencil, feeling that such a task is below the dignity of their position. Team work, willing cooperation, performing cheerfully even the seemingly menial and servile tasks—all are, in reality, big factors in playing the game of business.

Work that is not done cheerfully is of little value. Whether our work seems light or heavy is determined largely by our point of view—our way of looking at it. Mr. Carroll pointed out that the physical effect of all vigorous effort, whether work or play, was the same—namely, fatigue. What, then, is the difference between work and play? Just a state of mind. We should consider our work a big game, and we should play the game just as the football player plays it—enthusiastically, joyfully, and with but one end in view—to win fairly and squarely, forgetting the hurts which are quite unescapable.

Mr. Carroll elaborated on the popular saying, "The voice with the smile wins." He placed great value on the ability to smile, especially when tasks seemed burdensome, and issued a warning, directed at those who had not yet learned how to smile, that they should proceed with care at the outset, and to illustrate this point he told in most entertaining fashion the story of a certain business man, noted for his regular and exemplary habits, who confided to his friend that his wife was growing more irritable every day and that he was at a loss to know how to stem the tide; whereupon his friend vouchsafed the suggestion that the husband show more affection toward his wife, that he take home some flowers, candy, etc., as he did during courtship days. The husband, acting immediately on this suggestion, on his way home that night bought a 5-pound box of chocolates, entering gleefully into the kitchen he threw the box of candy in his wife's lap, grabbed her round the neck, and kissed her a dozen times. She drew back in amazement and started to cry. "What in the world's the matter now?" gasped the husband. "Oh, everything's gone wrong today," sobbed the wife. "Susie came home with a complaint from the teacher; Willie just fell and cut open his forehead; the beans burning in the oven; and to cap the climax now you come home, INTOXICATED!"

The second half of the lecture, which was devoted to an expert presentation of the subject of telephoning, could have been listened to with profit by every telephone user. It gave the students a clear conception of the use and misuse of this most important means of communication. In this connection, Mr. Carroll laid special stress on the careless manner of expression to which most of us are addicted, both as to voice and language, and demonstrated most convincingly how correct expression can be developed and made to pay big dividends in business.

Throughout his lecture, Mr. Carroll drew upon his wide experience as an executive of the New York Telephone Company, using illustrations that were most likely to interest young people aspiring to careers in the business profession. As a result of his efforts, the students of the Moran Business School have profited greatly and have renewed their determination to improve their talents with a view to rendering efficient service as secretaries, accountants, and business assistants.

PIGS' PARTY

"Grunt, grunt," said Grandfather Porky Pig.

"Squeal, squeal," said Miss Ham.

"What is all the excitement?" asked Brother Bacon.

"Yes, tell me," said Sammy Sausage.

"And I want to know too," said Sir Benjamin Bacon.

"I'd like to know," said Sir Percival Pork.

"You have something to tell us, you two," said Mrs. Pink Pig, as she looked at Grandfather Porky Pig and Miss Ham, and pointed her snout in their direction.

"Mrs. Pink Pig, is right," said Pinky Pig's mother, and Mr. Pinky Pig said, "She is right. Squeal, squeal, she is right."

"Well," said Grandfather Porky Pig, "It is hard to get the chance to talk when all of you are speaking."

"It is hard," squealed Miss Ham.

"Well, we will not say anything except to ask you to tell us," said Brother Bacon. "Will we, Pigs?"

"No," squealed all the pigs.

"Now, let us all say, all together," Brother Bacon added, "Miss Ham and Porky Pig, tell us what you have to say."

And when Brother Bacon said "One, two, three," all the pigs said together what Brother Bacon had said before.

"In the first place," said Grandfather Porky Pig, "Miss Ham and I

"I Have a Splendid Banquet."

were thinking it would be nice to give a party.

"Miss Ham would be the hostess and entertain all the guests and I would be the host and receive them all as they came."

"Why that sounds fine," said Brother Bacon.

"Simply splendid," said Sammy Sausage.

"Magnificent," squealed Sir Benjamin Bacon.

"Gorgeous," grunted Sir Percival Pork.

"Too nice for mere words to describe," said Pinky Pig.

"I agree," said Master Pink Pig.

"Of course," said Brother Bacon, "you'll have a delicious banquet."

"Oh, yes," said Grandfather Porky Pig.

"Of course," said Miss Ham.

"And of course you'll invite all of us to come?" inquired Brother Bacon.

He could not quite understand why Miss Ham and Grandfather Porky Pig had decided on such an idea as this, and he wondered.

"We will invite every one of you," said Miss Ham.

"Not one will we leave out," said Grandfather Porky Pig.

"How truly delightful," squealed all the pigs.

"When is the party to be?" asked Brother Bacon.

"We thought of having it tomorrow," said Miss Ham.

"At three in the afternoon if that would be convenient," added Grandfather Porky Pig.

"Then we could lie around afterward and have a cozy snooze," he added in much the tone that some one would use in saying,

"And then we can have time for a nice talk."

"We could have a good rest before supper," said Porky.

"Well," said Brother Bacon, "I'm sure we'd all be delighted to come. Simply delighted, and we all accept with pleasure."

"We all do," said the pigs together.

"Then at three tomorrow," said Miss Ham.

"At three tomorrow," said Grandfather Porky Pig.

"We'll all be there," said the other pigs.

The next afternoon at three all the pigs were on hand—or on foot—for the party.

"As hostess of this party," said Miss Ham, "I mean to entertain you all this afternoon by showing you how much a hostess can eat. I have a splendid banquet here for myself."

"And I mean to show you the same as a host," said Grandfather Porky.

"And the banquet is not to be for the guests?" squealed Brother Bacon.

"Certainly not," said Grandfather Porky. "It's to be a Pig Banquet, you know."

"Yes, I know now," said Brother Bacon sadly as he and the other guests tried to grab what they could from their hostess and host—Miss Ham and Grandfather Porky.

WAYS WITH FISH

A white-vented fish makes a most delicious dinner dish when boiled. Wrap in cheesecloth and simmer until tender in boiling salted water seasoned as one likes, with a little parsley or onion, or use fish stock in which to cook the fish. Remove from the cloth, and serve on a hot platter with Venetian Sauce.—Melt one fourth cupful of butter, add four tablespoonfuls of flour and stir until well blended; then pour on gradually while stirring constantly, two cupfuls of boiling water. Bring to the boiling point, add the juice of half a lemon, one-fourth of a cupful of capers, one tea spoonful of chopped parsley and two tablespoonfuls of finely-chopped pickles. Again bring to boiling point, season with salt, and two tablespoonfuls of butter added bit by bit.

Salmon Souffle.—Season one can of salmon (flaked) with salt, paprika and two teaspoonfuls of lemon juice. Cook one-half cupful of soft bread crumbs with one-half cupful of milk five minutes. Add the salmon and the yolks of three eggs beaten thick, then cut and fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Turn into a buttered baking dish, set into a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven. Serve with Spanish Sauce.—Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, add three tablespoonfuls of flour, stir until well blended, then pour on gradually one cupful of milk and one-half cupful of cream. When boiling add one-half cupful of pimientos put through a sieve, one teaspoonful of salt, a little red pepper and a dash of paprika.

Salmon may be served as salad, with lettuce, as stuffing for green peppers, creamed in timbale cases, scrambled with eggs, in chowder, with egg sauce and boiled potatoes, or molded in fish aspic. These are but a few of the many ways to serve canned salmon.

PROVIDING CLOTHING FOR THE RAINY DAY.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

All sorts of precautions are advised for the rainy day. One of them should be to provide for a good-looking storm coat in which to weather the storm. Customs change, sometimes it is the accepted thing to have a good-looking rain coat, which is literally waterproof and all manner of things from the transparent slicker to waterproof materials have their day. Just now women have decided that providing a coat ample enough to be all-enveloping and of a sturdy enough texture to stand a drenching, is a good companion in fair or foul weather.

A coat such as is shown fills the niche of a mackintosh and does much more besides. It is a general utility sort of garment and may be very loudly patterned. Notice the introduction of a well fitted yoke, which is cut in one with the sleeves and notice that the coat subscribes to the shorter line, permitting the skirt to show beneath.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Rub on Good Old Musterole That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once. Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, does the work without blister. Just rub it on with your finger-tips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole. 35c and 65c, in jars and tubes.

Present Spray Method Upheld

Fruit growers are advised to stick to the well known routine spray practices in the control of orchard pests until more evidence is available relative to the effectiveness of the new departures being advocated for spraying and dusting operations in a statement recently made by the entomologist at the experiment station in Geneva, regarding the results of the station experiments during the past season. For many years the fruit growers of the state have looked to the station for guidance in their fight against the insects and diseases infesting New York orchards, so that the experiments of the past season dealt with certain problems that have been especially troublesome, says this station specialist. Among the points investigated were troubles in codling moth control, oil emulsion sprays for San Jose scale, casein sprayers as preventives of spray injuries, and the value of nicotine dust in combating pear psylla, scale and rosy apple aphids.

On the whole, in the station experiments, the regulation spray formulae which have been in use for several years and which have proved their efficiency gave somewhat more consistent results than did dust mixtures made up from the commercial preparations now on the market. In some cases it is a matter of cost, the dust being too expensive in comparison with the spray to make possible economical control. It was pointed out. In other instances the dusts were not as effective insecticides as the spray mixtures.

"In our experiments with codling moth, both spray and dusts have reduced materially the extent of voracious apples," says the station entomologist. "On the whole, however, sprays containing lead arsenate have been more effective than dusts containing lead arsenate, but the differences are not large."

"With regard to the use of nicotine dust against the pear psylla, the cost of the treatment is the only complaint. The control of the insect, as far as foliage, convenience, and rapidity in applying have all proved satisfactory. Of the spray mixtures used against psylla, lime-sulfur has caused severe foliage injury, while nicotine sulfate in a weak Bordeaux mixture controlled psylla without injury to the foliage."

The use of oil emulsion against San Jose scale is not to be recommended in place of lime-sulfur in New York orchards. It is said, unless the scale is getting the upper hand and lime-sulfur is not giving effective control as sometimes happens in old orchards. Casein "spreaders" failed to give any more effective control against the principal apple pests, he said, although there may be some benefit from its use in reducing spray injury.

FIFTH BINNEWATER.

Fifth Binnewater, Jan. 21.—Joe Osterhoudt spent several days recently with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Straub, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jordan and son, Stanley, spent Tuesday evening, January 21st, with Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Freer and heard Mr. Jordan's niece, Miss Chute Lampman, sing on the radio from station WEAH.

Myron Wells is here again as station agent. All are glad to welcome him back. John Winters, who is the regular agent, is spending the winter in Tampa, Florida.

Myron Freer has moved into his house in Fourth Binnewater. The rooms vacated by him are to be occupied by James Castor.

William Jacoby is having a large porch built on the front of his house in place of the small one which was built with the house. It is a fine improvement.

The Morris Stanley Jordan and Myron Wells attended a masquerade ball at Walkhill Friday night. They enjoyed a fine time.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Fourth Binnewater held its regular Christmas meeting at the home of their president, Mrs. Jacob Freer on Thursday afternoon, January 3rd. Several selections on the piano were rendered by Miss Mary Dietz, after which a regular dinner was served by Mrs. Freer. The table was nicely decorated with a centerpiece made up to represent a lawn with a cedar tree, bungalow and walks around the bungalow, all covered with snow. The bungalow turned out to be a lovely, fine layer sponge cake. The favors were useful as well as ornamental, being a tiny ironing wax, dressed as a doll in Christmas crepe paper, which blended very nicely with the centerpiece. After all had eaten, more music was played by Miss Dietz, while packages were opened and gifts from each member to the other were distributed by the president. The presents were received as well as presented with much Christmas cheer and greetings. After fancy dancing to Mrs. Dietz, some jokes by all, a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year exchanged, the guests departed voting Mrs. Freer a royal entertainer.

Francis MacDonald and Edw. Koch of Kingston called on J. B. Freer of this place, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jordan and son, Stanley, Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Davenport, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Straub and son, Gilbert, called at the home of Mrs. Jacob Freer Sunday evening and heard the Rev. Parker of the Point Breeze Presbyterian Church at Pittsburg deliver a sermon on Theodore Roosevelt.

Mrs. Mary Schroeder is having two summer cottages erected on the site of the old Stall's Hotel, which burned a few years ago. It is a wonderful improvement to the spot.

Several boys from here went to Cottekill Monday evening and enjoyed skating in the moonlight.

Floyd Dietz, Lewis Lasher and James Castor, who have been working on the crusher, were laid off last week for a short time.

Emay Waller, who boards in Kingston, spent Sunday with friends here.

The next regular business meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society will be held at Mrs. Jacob Freer's on February 7. All members are requested to be present as new officers will be elected. Mrs. Freer has had a very successful year as president. The Mercury A. C.

The Car of the Year

NEW LOW
prices are the outstanding feature of Chandler's 1924 announcement.

Never has closed-car comfort been given to the public at so low a cost.

Two new sedans are offered, the four-door five-passenger at $1895 and the four-door seven-passenger at $2095. The price of the popular Chummy Sedan, last year's big winner, has been reduced to this figure:

Chummy Sedan—$1745

With this development Chandler narrows the price gap between touring cars and closed cars almost to the point of disappearance.

Sedan bodies of such genuine beauty and durability have never been obtainable at so slight an extra cost over touring models. This is particularly true in the $1500-$2000 class where the Chandler chassis has taken unquestioned leadership.

The phenomenally low prices have not been achieved by any sacrifice of quality.

Each body typifies Fisher's unequalled mastery of the coach builder's art. Combining ruggedness of construction with grace of line and richly finished interiors, they constitute an offering of exceptional appeal.

Freedom from annoying squeaks is insured by unusual structural solidity. The doors will not develop rattles. The paint finishes are full toned and brilliant.

The True Test of Closed Car Value

At the New York Automobile Show and in the sales rooms of its retailers the country over, Chandler now displays a line of new sedans whose appearance, construction and price establish a new basis of judging closed car values. The appended table shows that the price gap between touring car and closed car is carried almost to the disappearing point:

5-Passenger	5-Passenger	7-Passenger
Chummy Sedan $1745	Sedan $1895	Sedan $2095
Touring Car 1485	Touring 1485	Touring 1635
Difference 260	Difference 410	Difference 460

All seats are amply wide, deeply cushioned, and luxuriously comfortable. The upholstery material is a plush of durable texture and is made in an original design of unusual beauty.

That the new cars constitute the greatest of sedan values will be instantly apparent to all who know the ruggedness of the Chandler chassis and the supremacy of Chandler performance.

Pikes Peak Motor

Built to master a mountain, the Pikes Peak Motor has officially established the Chandler as having no performance equal, regardless of cost or class. Matchless high gear capacity, amazingly swift acceleration, silence, smoothness and flexibility are the acknowledged attributes of this famous power plant.

Traffic Transmission

Generally regarded as the biggest advance in automobile design since the self-starter, this exclusive Chandler feature banishes the evils of the old-fashioned gear shift with its uncertainty and clashing. In a Chandler, the least experienced driver can change to any speed, instantly, silently and positively. The familiar gear lever and clutch are used exactly as before. There is nothing new to learn except the delightful driving ease thus provided.

Dominant in beauty, spaciousness, master performance and handling ease, these new models offer closed car values whose pre-eminence investigation will reveal.

What Is a Work of Art?

Dr. Washburn Gives Some Abstract
Definitions in Last of Her Psychology Lectures Here.

The last of the series of ten lectures which Dr. Margaret F. Washburn of Vassar has been giving at Wiltwyck Inn for the benefit of the Monday and Atharhaston Clubs, on the subject of Social Psychology, was given by her on Wednesday and closed with her definition of "What is a Work of Art?"

In briefly reviewing the lecture of last week, on the Psychology of Art, the lecturer reminded her audience that the psychology of art was divided into two departments: The appreciation and enjoyment of art and the creation of art. Some of the questions then asked were "How far does aesthetic art draw out effective consciousness?" "What is the nature of aesthetic consciousness?"
and it was noted that aesthetic art and the enjoyment of it are entirely unpractical, the moment of enjoyment being complete in itself. Again it was noted that a description of beauty was gained from defining what was ugly, and then summing it all up in Miss Puffer's definition of beauty as "That which gives us through the senses, the maximum of stimulation with the maximum of repose."

Dr. Washburn then raised the question as to whether or no art is beauty, answering that it depends upon the kind of art. One would not count tragedy beautiful. There are forms of art that are complex in their efforts.

Whether anything is a work of art depends upon the effect it produces. Take creative art. What is the psychology of the artist? What does he create for? Why does he sacrifice as he so often does to create art? He is living an unpractical mood, and this being unpractical has something in common with play; it is the surplus energy of mankind.
What, then, is the difference between creative art and play? In creative art something remains, endures, is permanent. Why? Because the artist wants to communicate a vision which is so real to him that he must tell it to other people. It is a form of language.

What means has the creative artist at his command? In primitive man we find that art impulses are of two classes; rhythmic and non-rhythmic. In the class of rhythmic we have music and poetry. And the mother of both is the dance. In the case of primitive man found in Australia the dance is elaborately worked out; is supposed to contain a tremendous amount of mana; is of marked religious significance. On the belief that imitating a thing will create it the hunt or war dances can readily be understood. Out of the dance came the art of music.

The more generally accepted idea of rhythm is that it is the regular recurrence of a stronger beat at set times and it has a tremendous hold upon us because we are naturally rhythmic in our very structures.
Rhythm is necessary for concerted action and the psychology of rhythm is crowd psychology. When everybody is with you, your ego is tremendously expanded to the point of a sort of intoxication. Then how did melody, the other factor of music come in? Melody was developed to accent rhythm. A louder sound seems higher in pitch. Since the origin of music is the dance it was necessary to have rhythm to accompany it. Similarly with poetry, it it thought that in the earliest days it was something chanted by the tribe. Then some individual in the tribe becoming even more excited than the others, emerged from the throne, and improvised a song part.
Finally tiring of the solo performance the tribe took up the chant or refrain again.

The drama which also grew out of the dance is an imitation, a piece of imagination worked out to produce an effect, but leaving out rhythm.
In the decorative arts, the beginning was individual; man's effort to decorate himself, and then as now, his personal decoration often bespoke his rank or social position in the tribe (or club).

These decorations were immovable, and were succeeded by moveable decorations from which we get our custom of wearing clothes. Next, primitive man took to decorating his property, basket work and pottery being the first two decorative arts. There are two sources of such decorative designs; natural objects, and the imitation of an older art.

Representative art is first of all drawing or sculpture. In the caverns in France now being opened up, have been found pictures of animals and what were they for? In the caverns must have been thrown weapons which were also found at these imitations of animals, probably as imitative magic, possibly as practice in marksmanship. In any event they were part of a ritual.

What can the various arts express? and what is at the disposal of art for expression? Some arts express only beauty, as in a conventional decorative design. Some express not only beauty but more complex ideas as love, pity, terror, joy. How are these more complex arts expressed? By an appeal to the emotions through images placed before us as in paintings and sculpture. Other arts express emotion through words as in poetry and descriptive writings or express emotions by thoughts as in poetry.

Music is an art alone, unique. Its appeal to emotion is direct, and someone has said that it creates a part for you that you never had. Why is it that music is such an immediate open-door? The sense of hearing is the greatest social sense. It seems that few invertebrates can hear; that in the lower animals mates are secured almost entirely through the sense of hearing, so that hearing is almost entirely a social function. It demands immediate attention. (People will not tolerate a boiler factory near human habitation while they will, day after day, stand the ugliness of an unsightly bill board.) Rhythm, a vital part of music, takes us to the crowd; and the sound gains direct access to emotion.

Dr. Washburn thought that poetry was the most favored art as to means of expression for there is beauty of sound, rhythm, the possibility of suggesting images and thoughts.

Then to summarize Dr. Washburn asked the question, "What is a work of art which the artist has made?"

Her answer was:
A work of art is something designedly made by man which gives pleasure unconnected with practical needs, to the senses and emotions, by facilitating our grasp of normal conditions in human life and increasing our sense of power. A work of art gives us a strength greater than our own. Just by appreciation we can enter into the creation which is marvelous, triumphing over the conditions in which we live, and has been called "The Reliever," though Dr. Washburn called it even more, "The Exal-ter."

Next week both the Monday and Atharhaston Clubs will take up their own regular meetings, continuing the study of Social Psychology. The Monday Club will meet on Monday with its president, Mrs. Lawton.

Doheny Loaned Fall $100,000

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Jan. 24.—Edward L. Doheny, multi-millionaire oil magnate testified on the witness stand before the senate public land committee this afternoon that he had loaned Ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, the sum of $100,000.

This statement was made in explanation of the mysterious $100,000 loan, which has figured so prominently in the Teapot Dome investigation and which led senatorial accusations of Fall to charge that it formed a part of the "corruption considerations" which they alleged Fall received as a result of leasing Teapot Dome to Harry F. Sinclair.

Doheny declared this afternoon that he made loan to Fall on November 30, 1921, and that he received a promissory note for the amount.

YOUNG JUDEA'S VARIED ACTIVITIES UNDER WAY

The work of the new administration of Young Judea has started satisfactorily. President Marcus convened the executive committee and a schedule for committee meetings was arranged. The educational committee under the leadership of Moses Rosenthal will meet regularly every Tuesday evening. The athletic committee headed by Israel Reuben will meet regularly every Thursday evening. All other committees will meet whenever it may be expedient.

The social functions of this year will be supervised by Ethel Marcus. The finance and membership work will be conducted by Messrs. Wolf and Avner, respectively.

The basketball team is in action again. A game with Newburgh is anticipated.

Synagogue services will be conducted tomorrow evening and Saturday morning services will be renewed in the near future.

At the Sunday Club meeting, Miss Anna Dumey gave a splendid talk on "What Young Judea Has Done For Me," and several members of the club sang a humorous folk-song, preceded by a very short business meeting.

For that birthday at home

there is no pleasanter custom than the bringing in of the lovely fruit cake with the lighted candles. Mother Drake's Fruit Cake makes it possible for any mother to provide a real birthday for her boy or girl, especially if she herself is not equipped to bake a cake with so many special ingredients in it. Mother Drake's Fruit Cake makes a birthday long remembered.

DRAKE'S FRUIT CAKE

Many think coffee is like a soup bone—the longer you cook it the more flavor you get—but when it is necessary to cook coffee to get out the strength, the flavor, that which makes one coffee cost more than another, is cooked away—and they all taste alike.

Another Treat

The art in preparing good coffee is to get the strength and save the flavor at the same time—that is how Pul-Vo-Drip excels.

PUL-VO-DRIP Barrington Hall Coffee

Pul-Vo-Drip is cut so that boiling water has direct access to the oil-cells, insuring quick extraction of full strength without loss of flavor. The strength is regulated by the amount of coffee used—not by excessive steeping or percolating.

To prepare Pul-Vo-Drip in an ordinary coffee pot, simply add boiling water, allow it to settle two or three minutes, then pour or strain into another vessel (preferably china). In a percolator allow half the usual time. Quick infusion makes better coffee.

We have designed a coffee pot that does it all in one operation and does it right. For information and free offer, ask your grocer or write to us.

Campbell Plays Stellar Role, Holding Borgman to a Low Score and Making 13 Points—Kingston Now Tied for Second Place.

Benny Borgman, former Kingston player, usually a prolific scorer, and second in league scoring in the Metropolitan League, showed very little of his ability as a sharp shooter Wednesday night at the local armory court, when he scored but one field and three fouls, a total of five points for his evening's work. Playing Borgman was "Soup" Campbell, who again displayed a wonderful brand of basketball. Besides holding Borgman to one field, he himself caged five pretty ones from the playground and three from the correction line, a total of thirteen points.

The scoring honors of the game went to Carl Husta, he caging four fields and six fouls, a total of 14 points. Husta's points came in the last minutes, which put the score at a safe lead.

C. Powers did not play, on account of an injury. Morris Tome filled in the center position and played a noble game. M. Husta was in the other forward position and Artus the other guard. M. Husta played a hard game and his passes accounted for a large number of the fouls.

Nick Harvey was also out of the game, due to an injury. The Paterson club lined up with Borgman and Steele in the front. Knoblauch at center and A. Powers and Dreyfus guards. Dreyfus was the visitors' leading scorer with 9 points.

During the struggle both teams shot very poorly from the foul line. Kingston had 25 chances, making good 12, and Paterson had 27 tries, caging but 11. A. Powers suffered from blindness from the correction line, making good one out of eight tries.

During the closing minutes Harvey was used in Steele's stead but did not last long and Steele was again put back into the game.

During the first half the score was very close; at closing time Kingston was in front of a 11 to 8 tally. Both teams started off strong during the final session and the three point lead was held by the local club up until about eight minutes of closing time, when the Morgenweck combination staged a rally and increased the lead to 15 points, the final score being 38 to 23.

There was a large increase in attendance, many staying for the dancing following the struggle.

Referee Murray had a brand new ball in play Wednesday, and this, together with the slippery floor, caused a great number of fumbles and sliding during the opening minutes of the contest. With last night's win, Kingston goes into second place, tying Yonkers.

The score:
Kingston, FG. FP. TP. C. Husta, rf. 4 6 14 M. Husta, lf. 2 2 6 Tome, c. 1 0 2 Campbell, rg. 5 3 13 Artus, lg. 1 1 3 Totals 13 12 38

Paterson, FG. FP. TP. Borgman, lf. 1 3 6 Steele, rf. 2 0 4 Knoblauch, c. 0 4 4 A. Powers, rg. 0 1 1 Dreyfus, rg. 3 3 9 Harvey, rg. 0 0 0 Totals 6 11 23

Score at half time—Kingston, 11; Paterson, 8. Fouls committed—Kingston, 27; Paterson, 25. Referee—Murray.

Colonials Again
at Fair Grounds

Manager Brown Says Locals Will Again Have Fast Team in Field This Summer and Will Open Season in April—Will Start Signing Players.

The Kingston Colonials will again take the field this summer and will probably open the season on April 15, at the Kingston Fair Grounds. Manager Lou Brown stated today that he had received several letters from out of town players who were anxious to connect with the locals. He said that Tannersville and Onondaga would probably be without teams this coming season.

It is expected that Judge Schrick will again have charge of the team, which assures the fans of some fast games this season. It is expected that there will be a number of new faces seen in the lineup this spring when the Colonials take the field. Manager Brown said that no games had been booked as yet although the Doherty Silk Sox were anxious to open the season here and the booking manager had written asking him to book the Silk Sox for either a single or double-header at the Fair Grounds on Decoration Day.

The work of signing up the players for the team will be taken up within the next few weeks.

To Repair Rubber Heels.

When rubber heels have become worn off on the sides or at the backs, they may be straightened by trimming off the entire heel with a sharp knife. Of course this reduces the thickness of the rubber, but the appearance is much better and the feeling more comfortable than the worn, uneven surface.

Possession of one's "own vine and fig tree" is archaic. Own vine and fig tree and bathroom is the sine qua non.

Odd Rents in England.

Many properties in England are still held on what seem to be the oddest of rents. The rent of one estate in Sussex, for instance, takes the form of a pound of black pepper each year, while another estate in Leicestershire is "paid for by a garland and three roses."

Tattooing.

It is impossible to say definitely where and when the custom of tattooing originated. Records of it are found in the tombs near Thebes, where there are painted representations of a race of white men whose bodies are tattooed. In Caesar's "Commentaries" we are told that the Britons were tattooed.
